Strong support for “Women’s Empowerment” symposium

St. Lucia’s Governor General Dame Pearlette Louisy and Rosalia King the wife of the Prime Minister Stephenson King attended the star powered ‘Women’s Empowerment’ symposium which took place at Sandals Grande on Saturday.

Women leaders in the field of business and banking, academia, media and other sectors of society participated in the day long meeting designed to celebrate Caribbean women and provide them with valuable information that will inspire, motivate and empower them to develop their inner potential.

The event was organised by Milestone Development Limited in collaboration with LIME.

A number of St. Lucians made presentations at the symposium among them Angie Montoute, a local radio personality and motivational speaker, and Carole Eleuthere-Jr. Marie, with over twenty years senior management experience in the field of Finance is the Country Manager for CMMB St. Lucia.

Also making presentations were the 1998 Miss Universe Wendy Fitzwilliam, now author, attorney Vice President of Investment Promotion for Evolving TecKnologies and Christine Schaap, the creator of Path Partners, an organization offering support and guidance to women as they navigate their journey through midlife.
